

Community Education Counsellor (CEC) – Harry Cobb

The Community Education Counsellor (CEC) works with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students and families by:

- ensuring that the educational, social, emotional and cultural needs of students are met
- mentoring and counselling students
- assisting with crises, family problems and school issues
- advocating on the behalf of students
- liaising between school and home
- conducting home visits
- participating in development of activities to enhance involvement in education
- monitoring student attendance at school
- providing individual parent/carer support
- promoting cultural awareness in the school community
- providing information regarding social and cultural protocols to the school community.